'ROARING' LION ESCAPES CIRCUS DURING PARADE

Beast Killed After He Attacks Horses Man Wounded

Richmond, Va., Sept. 19.—(P)—With thousands of persons scurrying to escape his fury, a lion tore through his wagon cage today, threw a circus parade into panic and brought down two horses by the throat before he was trapped and killed with high-powered rifles.

Cries of terror came from the spectators of the Hagenbeck-Wallace circus parade, through Richmond's main thoroughfares, as the lion, in his rage, clawed down the door of his cage.

The lion—one of those being trained by Clyde Beatty for his circus act—stood bewildered for a moment in the street, amid the chaotic crowds.

Attacks Horses
Then he reared up, crouched again, sprang for the throat of the lead horse of a circus wagon. Cracking whips of the drivers drove him off the horse a moment later, but after feinting first toward one side of the street and then toward the other, he turned back and seized a second horse, pulling it down and apparently sinking his fangs into its neck.

At this point, Patrolman James Richard Paul arrived. Daring the hoofs of the startled horses as well as a possible attack from the lion, he emptied his revolver at the animal.

In an instant the beast was converted into a roaring jungle terror, galloping down the street dragging a wounded leg and causing new fear to the spectators who had been held by curiosity after retreating to what had seemed a safe distance.

After a run of a hundred yards the lion left the boulevard, leaping across an open lot and dropping down at the foot of a tree adjacent to the Hankins-Johnson Sheet Metal Works. While C. O. Hankins and Miss Edna Howell watched from an office window at the metal works, the beast was aroused into new activity by shots fired from police revolvers. He leaped through a door of the shop, routing four workmen and was at once trapped by circus employees and police.

Curiously overcome by as hundreds of persons crowded around the building, disregarding police warnings and hampering the efforts of circus employees who held up a strip of canvas to form a runway into which the lion might be forced and eventually put back in his cage.

Fearful that someone might be injured an order was given to shoot the animal and a door was cautiously opened while Earl Lindsey, circus assistant, fired four shots from a high powered rifle.

Three shots took effect in the beast's neck, it was learned later, but he still was alive when Marvin Kramer, one of his keepers, borrowed a policeman's revolver, entered the building and approached closely to fire the finishing shot into his head.

FEDERAL FUNDS TO CONSTRUCT MILLION HOMES

Money Probably Will Be Released On November 1

Washington, Sept. 19.—(P)—An intention to begin releasing funds on November 1 for the construction of at least one million new homes was announced tonight by James A. Moffett, Federal Housing Administrator.

He made that assertion in a speech prepared for radio broadcasting, which was to open the electrical show in Madison Square Garden, N. Y., and which was relayed to rear admiral Richard Evelyn Byrd and his explorers in the Antarctic.

The organization work for the "1,000,000 or more homes this country actually needs," Moffett said, "is progressing with all the speed consistent with safety and efficiency."

"In this plan for construction of entirely new homes we are venturing into an unexplored financial field," he said. "Therefore, our rules and regulations must be drawn with great care and caution. We expect to be under way by November 1."

"In connection with our work I have contacted the country's industrial and business leaders—utility and railroad executives, manufacturers of all kinds of materials and supplies, representatives of labor, the press and advertising agencies—and I have yet to meet one of them who does not feel the most intense enthusiasm over the enormous volume of potential business and employment that will be opened up when the administration of all the provisions of the National Housing Act is in full swing."

Concerning the home modernization and repair phase of the program, the administrator declared that more than 1,000 communities have set up or are setting up committees to direct the program locally. He predicted that by Thanksgiving more than 5,000 municipalities will have established such committees.

Financial support, he said, has come from 7,000 banks with resources of $32,000,000,000 and credit facilities throughout the union which have signed up to make repair and modernization loans.

He added that such loans have been made in all states but three and continued:

"From field reports we estimate that one million dollars a day of loans are being made under our plan; and from experience in past community modernization campaigns we are sure that double that amount of cash business is being done."

Plot To Overthrow Government Is Discovered

Copyright, 1934.
By the Associated Press

Madrid, Sept. 19.—(P)—After conferring with President Alcala Zamora last night, Premier Ricardo Samper tonight said he was confident that leaders in an alleged extremist plot to overthrow the government would be apprehended promptly.

While the civil guards tonight continued searching homes of known extremist leaders for weapons, the Premier gave the president the details of the reported conspiracy to set up a "proletarian state" and assured Zamora the government was prepared for any emergency.

Meanwhile, authorities went forward with their investigation into the plans of the conspirators which they said included wholesale massacre of government officials.

A truckload of arms captured at dawn today and documents found in the possession of Francisco Ordonez, athletic coach at Madrid University, who was arrested on the University athletic field, gave away the plot, authorities said, and created widespread alarm in government circles.

In the truck seized were 34 cases of machine gun bullets, 60 cases of rifle shells, 300 rifle clips, 34 machine gun belts, 14 liquid flame machines, and three 14-millimeter guns capable of piercing armor plate.

Drastic measures were taken at once. Troops were ordered to barracks and heavy guards were thrown around ministries, banks and other public buildings.

At San Esteban special Judge Alarcón investigating arms discoveries there and at Denavia said evidence was almost conclusive that a Portuguese engineer named Castro together with two other Portuguese agents had negotiated for the sale of huge quantities of arms manufactured in Spain.

These arms, the Judge said, are believed hidden on the Portuguese side of the frontier ready for distribution to the revolutionaries.

A running gun fight preceded the capture of the truck and the arrest of the athletic coach which the department of safety said was "most fortunate inasmuch as it undoubtedly frustrated one of the most desperate plots conceivable."

Beauty Brings Finland New Honor

Esther Tolonen of Finland proves that her little country is not only a producer of champion athletes but of champion beauties as well. MORRO CASTLE ENGINE ROOM CREW PRAISED

Refused To Obey Last Orders Given From Bridge

New York, Sept. 19.—(P)—If obeyed, the last order from the bridge to the engine room of the Morro Castle would have left the flaming Ward liner circling about the ocean, a whirl of death and fire, evidence at the department of commerce inquiry showed today.

The engine room crew, however, disobeyed the order and put the engines into neutral.

This testimony was given by an 18-year-old Massachusetts Institute of Technology student, William Wesley Tripp, who was on a cadet engineer.

Tripp, whose praise of the engine room crew was echoed by Dickerson N. Hoover, head of the steamboat inspection service and conductor of the inquiry, read into evidence the copy of orders he scratched down from the bell sheet as the crew down below worked in the intense heat and dense smoke.

Last Entries.

The last two entries were: 3.19. Full speed ahead, port. 3.21. Full speed astern, starboard.

Tripp said Arthur Stamper, the third engineer left in charge after his superiors either failed to show up or left the engine room, put the engines in neutral instead.

Had the order been obeyed, the ship would have circled around—with passengers and life boats in the water about it—for at least eight minutes, Tripp said.

The telegraph between the engine room and bridge did not fail, testimony was shown, until 3:29 a. m. (all times Eastern standard) when lights went off all over.

Between 3:21 and 3:29, there were no further orders from the bridge, according to Tripp's private log which he gave to the Ward Line and which later was furnished both to Hoover's inquiry and to the federal grand jury.

Hoover questioned Tripp about conditions in the engine room, apparently seeking to learn if failure to shut off the ventilating system sucked heat and smoke down into the interior of the ship and forced the engine crew to abandon station.

"I think the engine room crew acted splendidly," Tripp said.

"I think so too," replied Hoover.

Details of the death of Captain Robert R. Willmott—died of an acute attack of heart failure—were given by Howland Hasen, the fourth officer, who testified he saw no marks of violence on the body.

Washington, Sept. 19.—(P)—The American Federation of Labor strode into the fall political campaign today, informing seekers after Senate and House seats that labor's support in November was contingent upon their advance endorsement of a legislative program including a 30-hour week.

Suddenly changing his policy, the Federation sent its demands for a six-point social reform program to some 800 candidates for the 34 Senate and 432 House seats to be filled November 6.

Heretofore, the A. F. of L. has supported or opposed candidates on their past records. Its demand for advance information was made without regard to party lines.

Some candidates today manifested concern over the questionnaire sent by William Green, president of the Federation. It called for a simple "Yes" or "No" on such things as the 30-hour week, six-hour day, extension of the NRA unemployment insurance, old age pensions, a new public works program and labor dispute legislation.

On the other hand, a number expressed approval of the program, a part of which is close in line with President Roosevelt's projected social reform plan outlined in a message to the last Congress.

In a letter accompanying the questionnaire, Green told the candidates that "if replies are not received within a reasonable time it will be considered that you are opposed to all the legislation urged by the American Federation of Labor and our members will be so informed."

At the Federation's headquarters it was said the organization was determined to learn the position of the candidates, regardless of party affiliations, and that it intended to hold the candidates to their pledges.

Before the fall campaigning ends the replies expected within the next two weeks, along with 50 already received but withheld, are to be made available to the 108 national and international unions, 48 State Federations of labor, 900 city central bodies and 20,000 local unions.

"The unions and their members in the various congressional districts and the states where senators are to be elected," Green wrote, "will be informed of the answers and requested to vote accordingly."

The Federation's questionnaire asks among other things:

"Will you vote for the extension of the national recovery act and retain therein Section 7A, providing for the right to organize and bargain collectively; the prohibition of child labor and the elimination of unfair trade practices?"

"Will you support social justice legislation providing for old age pensions, unemployment insurance, work security and health protection?"

"Will you vote for measure providing that all codes under the national recovery act should contain a 30-hour week and a 6-hour day?"

"Will you support legislation providing adequate appropriations necessary for a public works program as a partial remedy for unemployment and for relief of dependent unemployed workers and their families?"

WORLD'S FAIR REVENUES NOW $9,517,610

Amount However Does Not Include Gate Receipts

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(P)—The 1934 Century of Progress exposition so far this year has done a business of $9,517,610, not counting the gate receipts, the books showed today.

That much was taken in by all concessions, between May 26 and Aug. 31, said Comptroller Marvin M. Tvetter in the first statement on how the 1934 fair is doing financially.

To come out even, as no similar exposition ever did, it would need an average daily attendance for the rest of the year of 115,000 persons—16,500,000 in all. This would require a spurt; so far, the average attendance has been 98,500, Tvetter said.

Pay Back Capital
But it is sure to end with at least $7,500,000 of its $9,724,000 in borrowed capital paid back, he said. Another ten per cent payment—$14,000—will be made Oct. 1. Tvetter was proud of the fact that including the 6 per cent interest the exposition's gold notes have paid they have proved to be a very creditable sort of paper, despite the fact that much of the money was raised in the spirit, although not in the style, of contributions.

It will take a million dollars to demolish the fair and move it away from the lake shore, Tvetter estimated. For its entire plant, costing in all about twenty million dollars, the fair counts on only $100,000 in salvage.

It owns single buildings—among them the travel and transport hall—built at a cost of more than $1,000,000. Outside of what he spent at the gate, and anything he may have spent in the various "villages," the average visitor in 1934 spent only $1.01 1-2. Last year he spent $1.20.

The managements was "in the black" by $1,356,346 on Aug. 31, Tvetter said, having that much in cash and accounts receivable over its bills and expenses. Its "net liabilities"—what it owed over its assets, but not counting plant and equipment in the latter—were $1,805,977.21.

At the close last year, it was in the red, considering everything, by $7,725,954.

COOK COUNTY REPUBLICANS 'CHUCKLING' Constitution Day Receipts Will Net $65,000

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(P)—Cook county Republicans were still chuckling tonight over the full house they dealt themselves at the World's Fair on Constitution Day, while Democratic leaders for the main part were content to remain silent on their opponents' financial coup.

At G. O. P. headquarters a staff of accountants was busy figuring out how much the county organization's sponsorship of Constitution Day at the fair would mean to the party treasury.

Julius H. Miner, chairman of the Republican county committee's finance department, said the receipts from the sale of bargain tickets to the fair would net at least $65,000, adding that first reports that the profits would be from $100,000 to $125,000 were too high.

It was Miner who conceived the idea of buying up all of the fair's most popular concessions for the day and selling bargain tickets through the Republican organization. Billed as a non-partisan celebration, the Constitution Day program brought a crowd of nearly 360,000 bargain visitors to the fair.

They received for one dollar the right of admission to the grounds and 22 concessions, plus the privilege of hearing three speakers lambast the policies of the Democratic national administration.

Democratic Mayor Kelly, who was prevailed upon to issue a proclamation for the day, belittled the Republicans' coup.

"The crowd went there to take advantage of the bargain rates," he said. "They didn't care anything about the speeches. Not one out of a hundred heard them, anyhow. And if the Republicans were smart enough to make themselves some money out of it, I guess there's nothing we can do about it."

At Springfield Governor Horner, who also issued a proclamation, declined to comment.

Miner tonight said the concessionaires had received about $40,000, and that Republican workers who sold the tickets got more than $80,000 in commission. He estimated that overhead expenses and the World's Fair gate share would take about $125,000.

After deducting these expenses, he said, he expected the county organization to net about $65,000. More important, he said, was that the 360,000 visitors were exposed to the constitution, devised to fight the Democratic plea "stick to the president."

French Government Depicted As "Broker" For Arms Sales To South American Nations

FARM MORTGAGE AMENDMENT IS FOUND INVALID

By Sam Bledsoe
Associated Press Staff Writer
Washington, Sept. 19.—(P)—The French government was depicted before the senate munitions committee today as a "broker" for arms sales in South America.

Frank S. Jonas, chubby South American representative for the Federal Laboratories, Inc., of Pittsburgh, said he had been told of French activities many times during his years of dealing with Latin-American countries.

"The English government and other governments are keenly interested also in the sales of munitions their countries produce," Jonas added.

Carlton W. Rich, another representative of federal laboratories, broke in to tell Senator Bone (D. Wash.) that "I am told the English ambassador interested himself in a prospective sale in Montevideo to the police force and even arranged to have Montevideo police sent to London for training."

He explained that federal laboratories also was attempting the sale of their gas and other weapons to the Uruguay authorities.

Get Little Help
"Other governments interest themselves," Jonas said, "American firms get little help from their officials compared to the assistance given by European officials to their nationals."

John W. Young, president of Federal Laboratories, protested the introduction of letters filled with references to bitter and critical statements to his concern—and even by his own agents. The committee paid little heed to his complaint.

Jonas squirmed in his seat while letters he had written to Raul Leon, federal agent in Buenos Aires, were read, in which Jonas called Young a "nippy" among other things.

Young laughed heartily.

Later, he disputed a statement attributed to an official of the United States ordnance engineers of Cleveland also a manufacturer of gas and other munitions, which said the Cleveland concern held the New York police department "in the palm" of his hand.

The committee was informed today that Dr. S. K. Alfred See, the Chinese minister, had denied upon instructions from his government, that China had used any of its $200,000,000 American credit for wheat and cotton purchases to buy munitions.

The Chinese minister, calling at the state department, said he had requested Secretary Hull to ask Senator Nye (R-ND), chairman of the committee, to produce any evidence he had to substantiate the allegations.

"We have had charges before us that some of the credit was used to purchase munitions," Nye commented. "The charges are being investigated. There is enough evidence to make a study of the truth if the allegations seem worth while."

So numerous have been the international protests that the committee today made a public appeal for support of the investigation.

The committee's message was addressed specifically to the citizens of South America, where many government officials have been mentioned in connection with graft who greased the way for arms sales. But the statement was calculated also to bolster public sentiment in the United States for the continuance of an untrammelled inquiry.

Simultaneously there came a statement from Senator Bone that "there is a grim determination in certain quarters to stifle this inquiry because they say it is stifling profits."

Testimony circled again through talk of questionable "commissions" to help arms sales and of lobbying to the same end. Among the disclosures was evidence that:

Agents of federal laboratories smuggled tear gas riot guns and cartridges into Argentina in 1932 despite a presidential ban.

More than 100 foreign machine guns were imported into New York this year and sold there without restriction, presumably some of them reaching the hands of gangsters.

Federal laboratories, in an effort to prevent legislation against the use of tear gas, conducted lobbying proceedings in national and state capitols.

Lieut. Commander James H. Strong, since resigned from the navy, received commissions for munitions sales he made to the Colombian government.

It was Senator Bone who issued the appeal for support of the munitions probe after Jonas had asked in a pleading tone that the name of a Honduran public official who got a "commission" from an arms sale, be kept secret.

DIONNE QUINTET MAY BE INSURED

Callander, Ont., Sept. 19.—(P)—W. H. Alderson, spokesman for the Canadian Red Cross society and guardians of the Dionne quintuplet sisters, said today all negotiations looking toward insurance for the 113-day old infants had been cancelled.

He said the guardians had done no more than inquire of an insurance company what the rates would be for maximum protection for the children.

All five children, recently ill with intestinal toxemia, gained weight today.

Dr. A. R. Dafeo said he was well satisfied with their progress, even though "their bowel condition is not altogether cleaned up yet."

FARM MORTGAGE AMENDMENT IS FOUND INVALID

Federal Judge Rules Creditors Given No Protection

Baltimore, Sept. 19.—(P)—United States District Judge W. Calvin Chestnut today declared the farm mortgage moratorium amendment to the national bankruptcy act unconstitutional in that its five year clause discriminates against mortgage creditors in favor of bankrupt farmers.

Judge Chestnut's finding in an opinion filed in federal court here this afternoon, was based largely upon the following two points which he stressed:

(1) The amendment removes the protection which the laws of each state give a contracting creditor and doubles the protection given a farmer-debtor—thereby tending to confiscate the property of the creditor in an effort to save the farm of the debtors.

(2) The amendment tends to supersede the right retained by each individual state in the operation of its courts and to abridge contracts legally entered into and, in the case at hand, consummated.

Petitions Dismissed
Judge Chestnut made his declaration in dismissing petitions filed by William W. Bradford, Belair, Md., farmer, and Charles A. Compton, Carroll county farmer, who sought stays to prevent mortgage foreclosure proceedings under the moratorium amendment.

The Bradford case was the first to have been brought to court in this section under the Frazier-Lemke act, passed by congress last June. A similar case is pending in federal court in Louisville, Ky.

The avowed purpose of the act was to allow debt pressed farmers to keep and operate farms. According to its provision a farmer who is in arrears in mortgage interest and principal payments, and who is about to be foreclosed, may first get an extension of six months from federal court in order that he may make a proposition to his creditors. During that period no interest on the debt is charged. If the mortgage holder and other creditors do not agree to the proposition, the farmer may then petition the court for a five year stay of foreclosure. During that time he stays on the farm, which under terms of the mortgage contract would have gone to the high bidder at the foreclosure sale in order to satisfy the over due debt—and pays the mortgage holder a rental which the court sets.

Des Moines, Ia., Sept. 19.—(P)—The decision of a Baltimore federal district court judge declaring the farm mortgage moratorium amendment to the national bankruptcy act unconstitutional tonight drew a rebuke from Congressman William Lemke of Fargo, N. D., a co-author of the amendment.

Lemke was in Des Moines to address a meeting of the Iowa farmers union tomorrow.

"The amendment is constitutional," Lemke declared. "It has been so held by the judiciary committee of the house consisting of 25 lawyers including some of the ablest in this nation."

"It was held constitutional by the judiciary committee of the senate, the attorney general, the attorneys in the department of justice, the lawyers of the Farm Credit administration and the attorneys of the departments of the treasury and agriculture."

Justus Johnson Declares Farley "Can't Take It"

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(P)—Justus L. Johnson, chairman of the State Republican Committee, in a statement today answering a political speech of Postmaster General James A. Farley, said:

"He can't take it!"

Johnson referred specifically to portions of the address Farley made last night at Rockford, criticizing certain newspapers, and added:

"His attack on the newspapers of Illinois could have been expected. The New Dealers, after tying up the banks, business, labor and the farmers in their bureaucratic red tape, tried to get control of the press, but failed most miserably."

"Naturally they are all resentful. Any sign of independence is alarming to the New Dealers."

Farley in his address had said: "Our large metropolitan newspapers are bitter in their antagonisms and cannot be expected to give you a fair picture of either the operations or philosophy of the New Deal."

WON'T PASS TAX
St. Louis, Sept. 19.—(P)—The Democratic city administration decided today to drop its effort to pass a city income tax, sales tax or any other large revenue-producing measure.

The administration faces the prospect of a large deficit in municipal revenue.

Nemesis Arrives

"Be sure your sin will find you out," says an ancient proverb. In 1928 a butcher shop burned in Chicago. It was in the ground room of a three-story building, with flats above. In the blaze an 11-year-old boy, trapped on the third floor, lost his life.

The owner of the shop collected more than $11,000 of insurance. He has since prospered and today is the owner of five markets. This week an officer tapped him on the shoulder and told him to "come along." He faces a charge of arson and murder. For him Nemesis has arrived.

It all came out when a woman in her late fifties confessed to setting the fire and said the owner of the shop paid her $175 for the job. She is the alleged head of a Chicago arson ring, and already more than forty persons have been arrested as the result of the sweeping expose of this worst of all rackets.

For six years this heinous crime has been hidden. The man who instigated it probably thought he had made a great gain. The insurance he collected for the basis of a prosperity he has since enjoyed. For him it was a good stroke of business.

But now the whole hideous deal is brought to light. The man who had during these years lived as a respectable citizen is revealed as being charged with a capital offense under Illinois law. He must stand trial and take the consequences, whatever they may be.

People who qualify as professional fire bugs gain a strangle hold on those who employ them. When these criminals get in a tight place they are likely to talk and let the sword of justice fall where it will. Men who get into financial jams and then traffic with the underworld to find an easy way out do not realize what may be the awful consequences.

Enter, Bolsheviki

"Who's afraid of the big bad wolf," sang the League of Nations, and threw its doors wide open to Russia. The bolsheviki walked in without stopping to wipe their feet on the doormat. They made no apologies, retracted no statements, and produced no evidence of future good conduct.

One reason why the United States stayed out of the League was because there were nations in it with whom we would not care to be left alone in the dark. With the entrance of Russia, that situation has not been improved. Even tho he is admitted to polite society, the Russian wolf hound has not become a lap dog.

Russia went into the League uttering pleas for peace. Yet she has the largest peace time army in the world, and a fleet of airplanes among the three greatest on earth. At the foundation of her system of government is the tenet that the proprietariat revolution from inside the League and thru the propaganda agencies of that body, so much the better.

It begins to look as if the League were taking a ride on the back of a tiger, and some sharp observers can already note a cunning smile on the tiger's face. Thank goodness, the United States is not involved in this latest round of international horse-play.

Views of The Press

COORDINATION IS NEEDED

Keokuk Gate City

What the Government press agents, whose number mounts constantly, need most of all is co-ordination. They are getting entirely too individualistic. Look at this, put out by the press agent of the National Park service, as one of several "Nature Notes". Codes of fair competition are prescribed in the latest novelty in contests initiated in Mount Rainier National Park. Washington. Ground squirrels are the contestants. The objective is to see which can carry the greatest number of peanuts in its cheeks. Ordinarily an average ground squirrel, weighing half a pound, has a carrying capacity of 32 half nuts or 16 peanuts. But with their sporting blood aroused, capacity limit has been extended to more than 50. To date the record holder has stowed away 64 half peanuts and the runner up is 61. Visiting tourists supply the provender.

Chiselling and cut-throat competition in the shape of supplies of under-sized nuts or the small variety known as Spanish peanuts, are strictly prohibited. Only standard-size Virginia peanuts are allowed in the contest.

The tiny creatures, often erroneously called chipmunks, are plentiful in Mount Rainier National Park, and—with the obvious motive of sponging upon gullible tourists—approach camping parties with charming audacity.

That press agent, it is evident, is entirely too frivolous. If he isn't slyly "kidding" his colleagues in NRA what is he doing?

SO THEY SAY

If a traitor stole the plans of Pearl Harbor and Diamond Head and sold them to the Japanese, it would do less harm than would follow the elimination of private industry in the manufacture of munitions.

Mrs. N.E. Postlewait Dies in Carrollton

Carrollton.—Mrs. Nancy E. Postlewait, for sixty years a resident of this community, passed away at her home here at 5:45 o'clock Tuesday evening after an illness of ten weeks. She was 87 years of age.

Decedent was born in Adams county, Ohio, a daughter of Andrew and Maria Gillespie. She was married to R. S. Postlewait, and ten years ago the couple celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. Mr. Postlewait died nine years ago.

Ten children were born to Mr. and Mrs. Postlewait, of whom seven are dead. The three surviving are Walter Postlewait of Carrollton, Dr. Claude M. Postlewait of Decatur, and Mrs. C. K. Gillespie of Decatur.

Mrs. Postlewait was a kind and loving mother, a good neighbor, and a highly respected resident of this community. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the Christian church here, with interment in the Carrollton City cemetery.

Miss Mary Postlewait of this city is a niece of Mrs. Nancy Postlewait who passed away in Carrollton Tuesday evening.

TRUCK OPERATORS TO MEET AT WINCHESTER

The Illinois State code authority for the trucking industry has set September 20th, as the dead line for registered members of the industry to file rates under the code.

A meeting of truck operators of Morgan and Scott counties will be held in the court house at Winchester at 7:45 p. m. Friday, September 21, to instruct truck operators in these communities in the code's provisions for establishing rates and filing tariffs for all hauling.

C. E. Palmer, representing the Motor Truck Transportation association with southern Illinois offices at Belleville will attend this meeting to explain rate filing provisions and offer any other assistance needed by truck operators in working out their code problems.

The New Deal in Washington

Radio War Looms Over Free Time for Education and Religion . . . Broadcasters to Fight Strenuously . . . Bottle From Plane Christmas Night Club . . . Mrs. Roosevelt Is Booked Far Ahead.

During the absence on vacation of Rodney Dutcher, Journal-Courier Washington correspondent, Willis Thornton will write the daily Washington column.

Washington.—The government is beginning to get its hooks into radio from two angles, and some broadcasters are beginning to be a little disturbed.

The new Federal Communications Commission (FCC) begins hearings Oct. 1 on a subject that has already furrowed many a radio brow—the long-standing proposal to set aside 25 per cent of all broadcasting facilities for educational, religious, and similar non-profit organizations.

That "25 per cent of all facilities" might mean to take away 25 per cent of the allotted wavelengths from stations that now have them, or it might mean compelling all of them to donate 25 per cent of their time to such uses.

The Senate defeated such proposal last session, but the law creating the FCC provided that it make a report on such plan. That's what its approaching hearings are about.

This proposal to allot radio time to education programs has been going the rounds for years, sponsored by such educators as Dr. Joy Elmer Morgan, National Education Association editor.

It has never gotten to first base, and there are some who say congress provided for the present study in mere desperation, after hearing so much about it.

Loaded for Bear

Hearings will be before the Broadcast Division of the FCC, consisting of Judge Eugene O. Sykes, Thad H. Brown, and Harrison Gary.

The National Association of Broadcasters is all loaded for bear to spike the plan with a barrage of testimony. Bridge and son James, of Eberstadt community, Mrs. Hanna Rexroat, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Rexroat and sons Allen and Henry of Liberty, James Finch of Jacksonville called on friends in this vicinity one day last week.

Mr. Chester Brainer, Mrs. Roscoe Goodpasture, Mrs. Thomas Parlier, Mrs. Harold McGinnis and daughter attended the September meeting of the Arcadia Woman's club Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Murrel Brainer near Arcadia.

Several from this community attended services at the Arcadia church Sunday. At noon a basket dinner was enjoyed. The services were in charge of Rev. Fred Hauges of Iowa.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Davis and son of Arcadia called Sunday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tilden Davis.

Mrs. Thomas Ruby spent several days last week with relatives and friends in Jacksonville.

Mrs. Wall Mason was a recent visitor at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Mason of near Sinalar.

Mrs. Claude Franklin spent an afternoon last week with Mrs. Harry Brainer.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Standley spent Saturday with relatives in Jacksonville.

WIENER ROAST AT PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Jean Curtis and Mr. and Mrs. A. S. Armstrong and sons and Florence Taylor enjoyed a wiener roast at Nichols park Wednesday.

Curt Davis Pitches Good Ball and Phillies Defeat Chicago Cubs by 5-4 Score

GIANTS WALLOP REDLEGS 6 TO 3

New York, Sept. 19.—(P)—With one big inning the New York Giants tacked another half-game onto their National League lead today, defeating the Cincinnati Reds 6 to 3 to increase their advantage over the second place Cardinals to four full games. The Cards again were rained out at Boston.

Going into the last half of the eighth with the score tied at two-all, the Giants put together four hits, a base on balls and an error to score four runs. Before they subdued the Reds in the ninth, however, Manager Bill Terry was forced to call Adolfo Luque from the bullpen to put down a threatening rally.

Beryl Richmond, the Reds recent southpaw acquisition from Baltimore, kept the Giants hits well scattered until he blew up in the eighth. He was matched by Leroy Parmelee, however, until the Giants big right-hander was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh. Joe Bowman, Al Smith and Luque finished up the game with Bowman getting credit for the victory.

Philadelphia, Sept. 19.—(P)—Curt Davis chalked up his 17th win of the season today—an elusive mark for which he had been winning since August 4—as he and his Phillies mates landed on Chicago Cubs pitching for a 5 to 4 victory in the third game of the current series.

It was the eighth time Davis had taken the mound against an enemy in search of number 17 in his string. He not only limited the Cubs to seven hits, but drove in the two runs that spelled victory.

The home half of the sixth inning, when the Phils mixed five hits and a pair of passes for four runs, really decided the issue. Before that the Cubs held a 3-0 edge.

In the eighth, the Phils scored again, and luckily, for in the closing frame, the Cubs rallied in a drive that fell only one run short of tying the count.

Ready to Open Season Here Friday Night

Routt high's Roaring Rockets, undefeated for three years will break out on their fourth consecutive undefeated year trail here Friday night under the Illinois College lights when they take on the talented and powerful Trinity high team from Bloomington. The Rockets although hard hit by graduation last year, will be back in the thick of the tussle this year with another fancy, precision timed machine, according to dope floating off the east side campus.

SENATORS TROUNCE INDIANS 5 TO 2

Cleveland, O., Sept. 19.—(P)—Washington evened the series with Cleveland at two games apiece today by defeating the Indians 5 to 2.

The Nats took an early lead, scoring two runs in the first inning and three more in the fifth. They were never headed by the Indians, who had difficulty with Burke's pitching and made only eight hits.

Stone, Washington center fielder, had a perfect day at bat, getting three singles in three times up. Vosmik, Averill and Manush made two doubles apiece.

Score:
Washington . . . 200 030 000—5 13 0
Cleveland . . . 100 001 000—2 8 0

White Hall Not Saying Much But Sawing Conference Timber

White Hall, Sept. 19.—(Special)—White Hall high is not saying much about this year's football team, but they are sawing up a lot of timber for the Illinois Valley conference fires this fall. The reason is perhaps that there are only four lettermen back for Coach W. H. Knoop to work with, but don't let that deceive you—because he has two seniors, three juniors, five sophomores and a freshman picked to enter the game against Beardstown this Saturday afternoon in a game which will be just about as important to White Hall fans as any of the Illinois Valley conference games.

White Hall has eight games ahead of them, six of them in the conference, and Coach Knoop, and his assistant, Al Reesman, have been looking ahead to it with some doubts. They have every reason to expect that this year might be something more than just an ordinary year at White Hall, because they are going to put one of the heaviest teams on the field there is in the conference, but they are not saying anything about it.

Gaze down this list of players:

Player	Pos.	Wt.	Ht.	Exp.
Walter Scheer	L.E.	150	5' 9"	2
Raymond Newton	L.T.	170	5' 10"	4
Robert Marshall	L.G.	175	6' 2"	2
Wayne Eriekraut	C.	150	6' 1"	1
Thomas Hudson	R.G.	155	6' 1"	1
Edmond Farnback	R.T.	180	5' 7"	4
Paul Hudson	R.E.	150	6' 3"	2
Donald Kessinger	Q.B.	140	5' 7"	2
Dean Fair	L.H.	145	5' 9"	2
Glenn Westerhold	R.H.	145	5' 8"	3
John Moulton	P.B.	170	5' 10"	3

Team average 157; line average 161; backfield average 155.

Those are the boys who probably will make up the first team when

Beardstown invades White Hall. There are several other boys, however, who are waiting for a chance to get in the thick of the battle. Seven freshmen have been shoved up to second team positions, there is one junior on the second string, and the other three players are sophomores.

Jack Pirith, 140 pounds, and Woodrow Taitman, 155 pounds are wingmen who may take over first team positions. Richard Ross, 155 pounds, and Ward Winn, 150 pounds are among the tackles seeking jobs. Harold Orten and Jack Anderson, 140 and 160 pounds, want guard jobs, and Bill Erb is after the center position, with his 150 pounds and six feet of length.

The second string backfield is composed of Durwood Strang, 135 pound quarter, Keith Peak, 125, and George Heaton, 130 pounds, halfbacks, and Raymond Norris, 145 pound fullback. Other players who look good at this stage of training are Jack Hart, Robert Walters, Basil Gilmore, Forest Smith, Edward Farnley, Francis Connard, Clifford Ahern, William Thibaud, Norman Wyatt, Harold McEvers, Warren Roadhouse, Emory Jackson, and Edward Bogges.

Johnny Moulton, a red headed power house, is apparently the only boy who has his position cinched. Moulton played fullback part of the time last year, and is right up with the best of them in scholastic efforts.

Schier, who probably will make the varsity in his second year on the squad, is another active youngster. Westerhold has taken two years training, but he made the varsity grade in his third year, and Tom Hudson, who has been in bluffs, is expected to come out of the hustle with a varsity job despite the fact that this is his first year in football.

Lights are being put up on the Illinois College athletic field, and as far as we know, Routt high will be the only local group to use them. Routt plans to get a work-out under the glims tonight.

Trinity high, Routt's first opponent, will present a tough problem to the Rockets, who are defending a record of being undefeated in three years, and tied only once, if our memory does not play us tricks.

The problem will be Tony Capodice. Fans who saw the Catholic state tournament here last spring, probably can remember this little Italian fellow. He played guard on the Trinity team, and it was his delight to come tearing down the center of the floor in an attempt to make a close shot, regardless of how many men were between him and the basket.

Capodice ran wild against St. Teresa, and only a fumble on the eight yard line checked Trinity when they were headed for the goal in that game. Jim Cavallo, the other halfback, is rated about as highly as Capodice.

Ray Hanson, coach of the Western Teacher Leathersocks, has among his football prospects this year Lawrence Hansberger of Roadhouse. "Hansy" was captain of one of Coach Kealey's teams, and was a pole vaulter of considerable ability.

Earl "Red" Faris, Pittsfield high lad, is captain of this year's Leatherneck team, and will play a fullback. Willis Venters, Beardstown, is one of the veteran ends available at Western this year.

Alvin (Another Red) Taylor, former catcher on the Illinois College baseball team, and lately coach at McLeansboro high school, has been appointed athletic director and history teacher at Manito high school.

Lloyd Burdick, who took over the coaching job at Knox college this fall, found out right quick what has caused the Siwashers to lose so many football games in the past few years.

Sitting—V. Tobin, Mandeville, Johnson, Clement Maloney, O'Brien, McCatton, Dougherty.

Although the line-up is not definite as yet, Coach Baptist has been planning on using Profit and Albert McGinnis at ends, Lacy and Weidocher at tackles, Tapochik and R. Loneragan at guards, and V. Loneragan at center. The backfield probably will be made up of Buoy, quarterback, Lawrence and Torricelli, halfbacks, and either Corbett or Pritchett at fullback.

The Rockets will practice under the Illinois College lights tonight, if possible.

Athletic Director Father Johnson announced yesterday that Routt would play Quincy Academy under the college lights next Friday night, making a total of five home games on the Routt schedule.

COLLEGE SQUAD IS NOW UP IN 50'S

Resume One-a-day Workouts This Afternoon With Entire Squad Reporting at Same Time—Talent Is Developing.

Illinois College's football squad is now numbered in the 50's, the exact number of uniforms issued to candidates being 52. The squad will report as one unit tonight when the one-a-day workouts will be resumed after a split session yesterday in which parts of the entire group reported for different practices.

Hoarse, but smiling, Coach Ray Nussipinkel last night issued a forecast that the Blueboys are going to win four championships this year. Nussipinkel has added swimming to the championships he believes the college is going to win this year, along with football, baseball and basketball.

Every day the prospects look better he declared. The talent air dy is beginning to look much better than it was hoped during the first week permitting the coaches to go ahead with their plays rather than spend a lot of time on fundamentals. The first few flicks the team put in this week have resulted in well developed blockers and tacklers. The problem now is to weld the candidates into machines, and to teach them their assignments.

Tony Paocotti reported yesterday for the first time this season, and found a raft of backfield material scrounging over his job. Paocotti, punter and passer, jumped into the middle of the battle, assuring the coaches of an interesting scrap for backfield positions.

Every session it has become more apparent that one of the most difficult men to keep out of the line-up is "Knee-High" Lambaiso, a little fellow from Abingdon, who spent a year on the squad last year, and won his letter. Lambaiso was temporarily shelved when bigger boys reported for backfield work, but the little lad, not much more than 5 feet 4 inches tall, has been knocking the big boys all around, and has been going great guns in the ball carrying department.

A lusty squad of prospective freshmen backs, many of them talented, is battling with the veterans for positions. Sammy Mangieri has shown an aptitude for passing and running with the ball. Tony Donat also is an able passer and ball totter, a lad by the name of Stucka, from Chicago, looked good in his initial work-out yesterday, and there are a few more who have made impressions.

The veteran backfield contingent is comprised of Paocotti, Nick Watts, Lambaiso and Russell Speuhr.

After Being Held Scoreless For 20 Consecutive Innings Yanks Defeat Tigers 5 to 2

Detroit, Sept. 19.—(P)—After being held scoreless by Detroit pitchers for 20 consecutive innings, the New York Yankees turned on Elden Auker today and broke the spell when they scored a run in the third inning to make a start that developed into a 5 to 2 victory.

The defeat reduced the Tigers' lead over the second place Yankees to six and one-half games but Mickey Cochrane's men still needed only four victories or three, if they beat the Yanks in the final game of the series tomorrow, to clinch their first pennant since 1909.

For five innings it looked as if Auker might whip the Yanks but in the sixth he was found for a single, two doubles and walked two batsmen. The result was three runs and victory sewed up the game as Fordham Johnny Murphy, on the mound for New York, hurled steady ball most of the way.

Murphy held the Bengals to six hits to score his fourteenth victory of the year and grew better after given a lead. He allowed no hits in the last three innings, retiring nine hitters consecutively.

The Detroit infield was broken up for the first time this year when Hank Greenberg, slugging first baseman from the Bronx, was given the day off to observe the Jewish holiday Yom Kippur. Doljack played first, Goose Goslin moved into the clean-up position.

The attendance slumped to 26,000, the smallest of the series, and for the first time ground rules were not in force.

YOU'LL LIKE TRADING AT MAC'S

Fall FASHION NEWS
By Mac—

The new Styles for fall are now in stock and ready for your inspection. We would like to have you go through our store and allow us to show you the newest thing in topcoats, suits, hats, shirts, ties and hose.

Topcoats this year have a tendency to lean toward rougher fabrics with patterns being the keynote of style.

The Polo Coat with raglan sleeves, the Wraparound (no buttons), and the sport model made up with pleated back, are the 3 leaders.

These Coats are featured at $22.50 and $20.00. Suits carry on, with rough fabrics the predominating feature for fall.

Popular Patterns are both shepherd and gun club checks, while there is a comparative sudden vogue for overplaids which may be either of a darker color than the suit or of a contrasting color.

The Sport Coat with pleated back, and the double breasted, are the two leading models for fall.

Popular Prices from $24.50 to $16.75

Heatherland Mixtures lead the field in Hats. New finishes, roughly soft, are the vogue, in keeping with the rugged homespun and tweeds being worn in suits and topcoats. Blended colorings that are attuned to autumn harmonies.

The Important Hat for young men is the dark brown Snap Brim model with either black or dark brown band. Guaranteed quality at $3.50.

Arrow Shirts and Cheney Neckwear will be the feature. Regimental stripes for fall to match the rough suit fabrics.

Dark colors will also be a predominating feature of new fall shirts.

Visit Mac's at any time—a store for Quality, Style and Popular Prices—a store for men, young men and boys—where a cordial welcome awaits you whether or not you are buying—

ONLY 26¢ A QUART FOR ISO-VIS "D"!

... AND YOU COULDN'T GET A FINER MOTOR OIL AT ANY PRICE

You want premium quality in your motor oil, of course. And you can get it without paying a premium price—at any Standard Oil Station.

For Iso-Vis "D" is Standard's premium quality oil, yet it sells for only 26¢ a quart. It is the latest development of Standard's petroleum engineers—a group of men who know oil-refining from A to Z.

With this fine motor oil in your crankcase your worries about lubrication are over. You know that Iso-Vis "D" won't form sludge even at extreme engine heat, and sludge of course is one of the main causes of high oil consumption. You also know that Iso-Vis "D" won't thin out dangerously under heat or thicken very much in cold. Its unusually stable "body" prevents that.

So, for your own peace of mind, see that you get Iso-Vis "D". And see the Iso-Vis "D" you get! It is dispensed from clear glass bottles in which the full quart of good, clean oil is plainly visible. Stop at any Standard Oil Station or dealer and get, for only 26¢ a quart, the very best motor oil that money can buy—Iso-Vis "D"!

SCOTT COUNTY GROUP HOLDS FIRST MEETING

Democrats Open Fall Drive With Rally Wednesday at Winchester

Winchester, Sept. 19.—The Household Science department of the Winchester Woman's Club held its first meeting of the year at the Monument Park this afternoon with a 1:00 o'clock luncheon. Mrs. Oren Robertson, president of the department for this year, presided.

Mrs. Clarence Skell, district president, spoke at the meeting. Members of the Household Science Department of the Bluffs Woman's Club were guests of the local club.

The Literature and Civics department of the club will hold their first meeting of the year September 24th with a progressive luncheon. Miss Caroline McLaughlin will lead the activities of the department this year.

The Music and Drama department of the club hold their initial meeting of the year Wednesday, September 26, under the leadership of Mrs. E. H. Mellon.

Democrats Hold Meeting
The Democrats of Scott County officially opened the fall campaign here this morning with a Democratic rally at the court house. A large crowd of enthusiastic supporters of the party gathered in the circuit court room to hear talks by the Democratic state candidates who are now making a tour of the state.

John Stelle, Democratic candidate for state treasurer, was first on the program and was introduced by John Woodall, chairman of the Scott county central committee. Stelle talked principally upon state issues and particularly in defense of the state sales tax. He was followed on the program by Martin Brennan of Bloomington, candidate for congressman-at-large. Brennan praised the record of the late Henry T. Rainey and told of his association with him during the historic session of the past congress. He defended the present administration and gave praise to the leadership of President Roosevelt.

John A. Woodall, chairman of the public instruction, was next introduced to the gathering by Chairman Woodall. He spoke briefly upon the need for changes in our school system.

The last speaker upon the program was Michael L. Igoe of Chicago, candidate for congressman-at-large. Igoe defended the legislation enacted by the past session of congress and denied that the recovery measures had infringed upon the principles and the guarantees of the federal constitution. He praised the constitution and pictured it as being molded to meet the needs of people which he said were being best served by the present administration.

The Democratic county candidates were present at the meeting and were seated on the speakers platform.

Kiwanis Club Meets
Fritz Haskell addressed the local Kiwanis Club this evening upon questions of local interest to this community.

He prepared recently for the Scott County Research Forum. He stressed particularly the vast amount of money which was annually expended in this county upon projects and institutions which did not give a commensurate return for the money expended. He dwelt upon the large amount of money being expended for relief purposes and submitted figures showing how this sum had grown to such a staggering sum. His talk was most interesting and instructive.

The club held its meeting Tuesday evening at the Kiwanis hall. The winter sessions of the club will be served there by the wives of the Kiwanians.

Arson Queen Admits Starting 1928 Fire

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Bertha Warshovsky, Chicago's 56-year-old "Arson Queen," so called because of her alleged connection with incendiary fires, confessed, the authorities say, that she started a blaze that cost the life of an eleven-year-old boy.

Joseph Pecori, who lived with his parents in a third floor apartment above a butcher shop, was the victim of the fire which occurred in 1928. Trapped in the place the boy was badly burned before he leaped from a window. He died shortly afterward.

As a result of the reported confession Thomas Falone, operator of the butcher shop at the time, was arrested yesterday on a warrant charging murder. Assistant State's Attorneys Marshall Kearney, Gordon Nash, and John Boyle, said they planned to seek murder indictments against Falone and Mrs. Warshovsky today.

Mrs. Warshovsky, who is a grandmother, told the prosecutors, they said, that Falone paid her $174 to start the butcher shop blaze. They added that Falone collected $11,200 in insurance since which time he has expanded his business. They said he now operates five stores.

DEBATE SOCIETY OF HIGH SCHOOL PLANS PICNIC

Annual Social Meeting and Initiation To Be Held October 5

The Forum Literary and Debate society, the oldest club in the high school, held its first meeting of the year last evening in the school building. The new president, Edward Johnston, presided and plans were made for the annual picnic and initiation to be held on Friday, October 5.

Committees for this event were appointed as follows: Initiation—Bob Fay, Edward Smith, and Julian Rammelkamp; Transportation—Willard Brookhouse, Fred Oxtoby, and Bill Clark; Food—Mary Butler, Nyline Sture, and Dorothy Fancher; Entertainment—Jeanne Rantz, Mar Norbury, and Ralph Dunlap. An invitation will be extended to all alumni and honorary members of the club to attend the picnic.

Tryouts for prospective members will be held Tuesday and Wednesday of next week. Those who wish to try for membership will be required to prepare a short debate speech on government control of radio. The club quota is forty members. There are seven vacancies to be filled.

The Forum, besides being the oldest organization in the school, is the only one of its kind at the present time. It assists the varsity debate team in developing talent for this activity. Miss Emma Mae Leonard is the faculty advisor.

Relief Plan Facing Bitter Legal Fight

New York—(P)—A broadside of criticism was directed today at the city's proposals to raise relief funds through new taxes and a municipal lottery. Threat of a legal fight against the lottery was voiced.

No sooner had the board of aldermen and the board of estimates passed the hurriedly drawn-up measures than protests were raised in several quarters.

The Rev. George Drew Egbert, president of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, said the lottery would "sap the morals of our citizens." He said the society is consulting attorneys to decide what legal action to take.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, who accepted the lottery plan after his original proposal for raising money had been rejected, admitted a lottery stood about one chance in ten of being declared legal.

The New York Federation of Churches voted a "vigorous" condemnation of the scheme. The Board of Trade, through its president, Percy C. Magnus, said "the moral sense of the community is shocked."

Protests against the tax on federal income taxes and on the levy of one-tenth of one per cent on gross business receipts also were directed at the city administration.

DISCLOSURE MADE
East St. Louis, Ill.—(P)—Preparing to ask that operators of the Cahokia dog track be cited for contempt, Al Sheriff Oscar Becker of St. Clair county found an injunction against operation of the track granted in 1933 was no longer in force.

The injunction was set aside last week by Circuit Judge D. H. Mudge. It had been granted more than a year ago on motion of Everett Lane, a resident near the track, who said its operation would be an annoyance. Recently he moved out of the county and asked that the injunction be dissolved.

The track opened Saturday night, but was raided and eight arrests made.

PRESSLIVESTOCK MARKS
STEADY, HIGHER

Chicago, Sept. 19.—(P)—Livestock markets were steady to higher today as the volume of hogs and commercial cattle dwindled.

Trade in swine made slow headway but most offerings cleared steady to 10 cents up. Prime butchers topped at $7.40, and most good medium-weight moved at $7.25 to $7.35. Shippers brought 2,000 and packers got 5,000 direct of the small run of 14-200.

Cashing yesterday's advance, high dressing steers reached $10.90, equaling the previous high mark of the year set in August. Fully steady prices were paid for all choice grades of fed cattle and the quality was much better than on the previous day. A band of 1,289 pound Iowa fed steers reached the outside price and numerous loads brought $9.50 to $10.25.

Lower-grade fed steers and all grassy offerings met with a sluggish inquiry at steady to weaker prices. There was some late weakness in good to near choice light yearlings and long yearling steers. The total commercial cattle supply was 10,000, which was shorter than had been expected. The government run was 5-0.

In potentially broad demand, fat lambs moved slowly because of the higher prices asked by all commission houses. Holding out for $7.00 on best natives, sellers finally were paid this price but this was done sparingly. Prices were unevenly strong to 25 cents higher. The bulk sold at $6.75 down. Receipts were 14,000, almost double offerings a year ago.

STOCK MARKET
MUCH STRONGER

By Frederick Gardner.

Associated Press Financial Writer.
New York, Sept. 19.—(P)—A recovery in stock picked up momentum today as security markets displayed the broadest strength in several weeks.

Gains of 1 to 3 points were numerous among leading shares. U. S. Smelting & Refining spurred for a net gain of 5 points, now having recovered about 12 points of its recent slump.

The rally was carried on from the preceding session without notable increase in volume. The turnover was 556,780 shares against 541,700 yesterday.

Stocks crept ahead most of the session, closing around best levels. American Can, Santa Fe, American Telephone, California Packing, Bethlehem Steel, Continental Can, J. I. Case, Johns Manville, Spiegel, May, Stern, Union Pacific, Western Union and U. S. Steel were among shares moving up 1 to 3 points.

All sections of the list participated in the advance. Bulls were cheered particularly by the rally in rail shares from their 1934 lows touched last week.

The Standard Statistics Co. average for 90 selected stocks was lifted 17 points to 69.4, the largest advance since Aug. 21. The rally in bonds was the broadest in more than a month.

Traders shifted to the buying side of the market in view of the resistance shown on last week's test of the year's lowest levels established July 26.

Gold currencies were a trifle firmer against the dollar, but the advance in U. S. government bonds and the lack of interest in commodities indicated the lid was still down on the recent inflation gossip.

Only mixed impressions could be gleaned from mid-week business news. "The Iron Age" estimated steel output had increased 11 points to 21 per cent of capacity, but noted that buyers were still cautious that some were ordering in truckloads where ordinarily carload orders were expected.

Electric power production last week while up more than 3 per cent compared with the preceding Labor Day week was 4 per cent under that of the corresponding period last year. Offsetting production figures partly were additional reports of seasonal expansion in retail trade and brightening sentiment in farm areas, ravaged by drought last summer but since benefited by soaking rains.

WHEAT VALUES
CLOSE WEAKER

By John P. Boughan.

Associated Press Market Editor.
Chicago, Sept. 19.—(P)—Fears that Argentine wheat exports would overflow into the United States led to material setbacks of all grain prices today in Chicago.

Announcement that Argentine wheat, duty paid, could be laid down in New York as cheap as United States red winter wheat had a decidedly unsettling market influence.

A curious effect was that September, December and May wheat futures in Chicago all closed today at virtually identical quotations, something said to be without precedent here and resulting in complete elimination of carrying charges on deferred deliveries.

Wheat closed weak, near the day's bottom level, 1-1 1/2 under yesterday's finish, Dec. new 1934-4, oats 1-1 1/2 down, Dec. new 76 1/4, corn 1-1 1/2 and provisions unchanged to 12 cents decline.

Acute weakness of the Liverpool market added impetus to downturns of prices here. The Liverpool market was disturbed by poor grading of old Argentine wheat on delivery and by rains in Argentina regarded as bearish, as well as by Argentine offerings showing a break of 3 cents a bushel. With the Liverpool May delivery of wheat falling today to a new low price record for the season, Liverpool reported general liquidation in progress on wheat holdings in all positions.

May wheat contracts bore the brunt of selling here and dropped to the lowest quotations since July 27. Uncertainty as to next year's domestic crop accounted more or less for relative weakness of the May future. Widespread recent rains have improved seeding conditions in United States winter wheat territory, and farmers are reported planning to increase their acreage. On the other hand, mills were credited with buying wheat futures on today's price breaks, and Minneapolis messages told of selling of December wheat there against receipts in Chicago.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat weakness, and were responsive to slowness of shipping demand for corn. Despite hog market upturns, provisions tended downgrade with cereals.

STEEL PRODUCTION GAINS
New York, Sept. 19.—(P)—Steel Institute production, said the weekly Iron Age Review today, has had a further rise of 13 points to 21 per cent of capacity. The survey finds reports that the moderate increase in miscellaneous orders accountable for the upturn in operating schedules reflects a growth of replacement purchases rather than the initiation of a broad fall upturn.

CAROLINE by RUTH DEWEY GROVES

CHAPTER XXXVIII

Howard was obliged to spend Christmas day with his parents but on Christmas eve he and Caroline put up a tree in the house on Edge Street and festooned it with silver and gold lights and blue lights. There were masses of white and yellow chrysanthemums in tall glass vases that showed the long stems, wreaths of holly and holly, and—just where Howard wanted it—a bunch of mistletoe.

The house was gay and festive in appearance on Christmas morn when Caroline and her father sat down to a breakfast of waffles and honey, but their hearts were heavy. Suddenly Caroline put down her fork, pushed her chair back and flew around to her father. He held her like a child while she sobbed out her loneliness.

Presently, with Mrs. Stevenson, they gathered up their gifts at the foot of the tree and opened them. There was a wristwatch for Caroline from Howard, and a vest watch and chain, for her father's a camel's hair sweater for Mrs. Stevenson, and all the small things that Caroline had made for Philip. From him there was a surprise for her—her mother's wedding ring. Caroline made him wish it on her finger—just for the day.

He was, for a moment, the old Philip of pride and distinguished bearing as he slipped the platinum band over his daughter's slender finger and bent his lips to it with the wish in his heart that it should bring her more happiness than it had brought to her mother.

There were more presents to unwrap. Caroline's hand-bag for Mrs. Stevenson, a box of child-made gifts from the twins, a knitted scarf and beret and homelike handkerchiefs from Fern. And then there was left a square box with a card from Mrs. Stuart and Malcolm. It was addressed to the Rutledges, and Philip opened it.

Caroline was conscience stricken when she saw that it was a Christmas cake that obviously Mrs. Stuart had baked for them.

Her father, noting her expression, said: "Didn't you send anything Caroline?"

Caroline shook her head. "Only a card. I've scarcely seen them for weeks. I know I ought to be ashamed—after all their kindness—and I am."

Mr. Rutledge glanced about the room. "You might take over those chrysanthemums," he suggested, nodding toward the largest vaseful.

"And this box of place fruits," Caroline added, picking up one of Howard's gifts. "Wrap some paper around the flower stems for me, please," she said to Mrs. Stevenson.

"I'll do it right away," she said. "There was an eagerness in her manner that was slightly perplexing to her father. Caroline herself was unaware of it. She hurried into the hall and got a coat from the closet, but she did not stop to hat or gloves, although it was snowing heavily."

She was almost hidden behind the flowers when she rang the Stuart's doorbell. Malcolm answered. "Merry Christmas!" she cried gaily. Then, "Oh—this box under my arm. It's slipping! Take it quick!"

Malcolm reached out and took the box. "Come in," he invited. "If you're really there. I can't see you."

Caroline still held the flowers as she stepped across the threshold. Malcolm closed the door behind her and turned to take them. The day was darkening; he had snapped on the hall light. It glinted on the wedding ring as Caroline extended her hands.

"What's the matter?" Malcolm had uttered a smothered sound, expressive of unhappy surprise. But he smiled as he took the flowers from Caroline's arms and said: "Is it just Merry Christmas, or Merry Christmas and much happier?"

"Well," Caroline replied, not yet realizing what he meant, "it isn't really a merry Christmas, Malcolm, or a very happy one, either, in our house. But you and your mother were so sweet to remember us. I hope it is a happier one for you."

"I'm sorry," Malcolm said softly. "Mother's in the kitchen. Shall I tell her you're here, or will you come with me?"

"I'll come with you," Caroline said quickly. "I love your mother's kitchen. It always smells of spice or something nice."

She held some vague, high hope that Howard would eventually carve

Mrs. Stuart was happy to see her. She put down the goose she was dressing, dried her hands, and took the chrysanthemums from Malcolm. "I never saw such big ones!" she exclaimed in delight. "How nice of you, dear, to bring them yourself. Here, Malcolm, reach down that big pitcher for me until I find something better to put them in."

Relieved of the flowers she turned back to Caroline. "Let me look at you. Still too thin, but you're stronger, aren't you? Poor child."

She added the last word in tenderest sympathy, shaking her head. Caroline struggled to keep back her tears.

"There, there, cry if you feel like it," Mrs. Stuart soothed. "It wouldn't be natural if you didn't want to on the first Christmas."

"But it... it won't do any good," Caroline said brokenly. "And it will be harder for Father if I let go."

She held out her hand. "He gave me Mother's wedding ring," she added in a whisper. Suddenly she looked up at Malcolm. "Oh," she said, "you saw it, didn't you? And you thought that..."

"You were married," he admitted. Mrs. Stuart frowned. "Malcolm, how could she when..." she stopped in embarrassment.

"Please," Caroline begged, "let's not talk about me. I came to thank you for the cake, Mrs. Stuart. I know it will be delicious. We'll cut it at dinner. Father and I will be alone. Mrs. Stevenson wants to go to her son's after she's roasted our turkey."

"Christmas alone isn't Christmas," Mrs. Stuart said sadly. "Malcolm and I hoped his Uncle Dan would come with his family and spend the day with us but they had to go to his wife's folks. We're just going to have a goose all by ourselves."

"Why," Caroline cried, "that's silly, isn't it? You two alone, and Father and I. There must be some family in the neighborhood that would like a goose. Let's find one, and then you and Malcolm can help us eat the turkey. It would cheer Father immensely. And I just can't bear the thought of that lonely dinner. Say you'll come—please."

The day, from that point on, became brighter for all of them, although the snow continued to fall in flakes so heavy and thick that the daylight was turned into a semiblaze of dusk.

Caroline brought out more red candles and softened the rooms with their light. There was a bowl of poinsettias on the dining table and red candles there, too.

Mr. Rutledge mixed the Christmas drink from an old family recipe and they drank to each other's good cheer. Mrs. Stuart watched him, first in anxiety, then in surprise and finally in a newly found respect as the dinner progressed and he served the wine that Howard had brought, filling his own glass only a second time and thereafter leaving it untouched.

And he had carved the turkey beautifully. Mrs. Stevenson had declared it ready to serve, partaken of the turkey with them, and departed. Caroline had decorated it and Malcolm had carried it to the table.

By common consent no one spoke of sadness except during the brief moment when Philip stood before Alva's portrait—the one rare possession left to him—with bowed head and trembling lips.

The dinner was not without interruptions, however. Every hour a messenger boy arrived with a telegram for Caroline—a series that Howard had arranged in advance. There was, after she had read them, a brighter light in her eyes, but, returning to her guests, she avoided Malcolm's gaze. He seemed so pathetically happy. She hoped he had not guessed what the messages were, but if he had she did not want him to see how much they pleased her, letting her know that Howard hated having to spend the day away from her as much as she herself hated it.

It would be, she hoped, their last Christmas apart. But if it were not... well, she would be in her own home, in his home, and Howard would not go on forever with a secret regret because of his father's disapproval.

She held some vague, high hope that Howard would eventually carve

men's prison and confided: "You see, the little woman doesn't know where I went when I left home Monday at 2 in the morning to go to Newman for picketing. I'll bet I catch the devil when I get home," he said with a grin. "But some of the other boys are in the same boat, and I reckon somebody has told the wife by now that the national guard took a bunch of us at Newman Monday morning."

Not far from the men's prison is a one-story building, in a grove of pine trees, housing the women.

The girls—most of the women are under 20 years old—chat

Latest in Wearing Apparel is Shown at Formal Fall Opening

Jacksonville merchants ushered in the fall buying season last night in a brilliant display of apparel and accessories in the annual Autumn Opening, with thousands of men, women and children parading the business district as spectators to the event. Store windows were brilliantly lighted and tastefully trimmed with the latest, most popular items for the fall and winter season. The general opinion was that the display that greeted the public was one of the finest and most attractive ever shown here.

Every one of the stores participating in the event had special displays, and there were many interesting and novel groupings.

Women's Apparel
Naturally, most interest was shown in the displays of women's apparel and the many lines of accessories. The Emporium, East State street, had its usual brilliant display of high fashions, assembled before a novel, and beautiful white background decorated with copper boudoir and gold neon lights. Cloth coats shown included one of brown jumbo crepe, with Jap mink collar and mink trimmed cape; a black trebarek with American con collar and a green jumbo crepe with sabbled civit, with millinery and accessories to match. Suits with coats of three-quarters and seven-eighths lengths, were shown with beautiful beaver trim. A wine cloth coat, trimmed with natural mink, was one of the most charming styles shown. Woolen sport dresses, featured in popular "title" color, were contrasted in trims with black or brown. A jacket dress of black wool crepe, trimmed with satin and silver fox fur, elicited the favorable comment of many women. Another interesting fashion note was contained in the display of a black crepe dress trimmed with gold braid. A blue transparent tea gown of velvet was a favorite of the display.

Accessories included the newest in shoe leathers, "bark" in both the popular brown and black. Waterproof fabrics in purses were shown. One of the interesting displays was of Yolande hand-made lingerie in flowered and plain satins. Centered in this display was a bottle of Lelong's Monimage perfume, valued at one hundred dollars.

Fur Coats Shown
Kline's department store, south side square, displayed a large line of fur coats of various styles, now featured in an early season sale. There are many beautiful numbers in this line of furs. A racoon coat emphasizes the collegiate touch to this fall. Shown was a beautiful red party dress, with bright silver ornaments, and fur trimmed. Plaids in dresses, blouses and skirts was featured in an individual display. Ensembles of coat, hat, dress, shoes and hose were displayed in the popular brown. A note of returning memories is shown in the dainty mink muff with several of the cloth coats. Hats in the popular tricorn shape, in many new fall colors, including green, brown and black, were displayed. New models of shoes received prominent display.

In the west window of Waddell's department store was a beautiful display of transparent velvet cocktail dresses. Black is also the predominating color in these with brown and wine running close. One of the outstanding dresses was a black one with mink tails. A tea rose lace negligee was one of the most outstanding features of the east window and the same kind of a negligee was also modeled in the style show last evening. The color of the tea rose in the negligee will predominate this fall. Black lace lingerie will also be very popular this fall. Another interesting feature of this window was the Kenwood blankets and throws shown in the new colors of peach and green.

Style Show Popular
A large crowd of both men and women were in attendance last evening at the style show given by Waddell's on the second floor of their ready-to-wear department. Women's and children's wear were modeled during the hours from 7 to 9 o'clock. Some of the apparel shown last evening was the new swaggar and polo length sport coats in the novelty plaid of brown, gray and blue. Plaid dresses of wool and silk are exceptionally popular this year along with the new cereal crepe dresses with black as the most outstanding color. A large line of four coats were also shown.

The newest style in coats are those of tre-bark cloth with balloon sleeves and a narrow cuff. Black is again the leading color. Bright colors will be the lead in handkerchiefs this fall and winter. A medium size, eleven to twelve inches square will be the most popular. Linen handkerchiefs are being shown in bright colors, with net edging of the same color. Lace ones will also be good this year. The J. C. Penney store featured in its window last evening a black gown crepe dress with white satin trimmings, a black coat with fur. Black suede ties with the boulevard heel, a medium sized black brimmed hat and gloves completed the outfit. Other lines of apparel were featured in browns and greens.

Women's Fashions
Montgomery Ward's outstanding display in women's fashions last evening was the green crepe sport dress with a green and white plaid collar and bow. Several other street dresses were shown in the popular fall colors of brown and wine. Felt hats in the same popular colors used in dresses are being shown in both the turban and small brimmed styles for early fall and winter wear. Kresge's 25c to $1 store, south side square, featured millinery, new neckwear and gloves. The new hats are in a variety of shapes, including the blimp oversized tan, the wattleau Chesterfield, the Watteau, the eucolie and the streamlined. Neckwear of piques, embroidered styles, satins and tinsel decorated, suitable for every occasion or dress was shown. Economy requirements will find the use

GIVE PROGRAM AT MACMURRAY FOR FRESHMEN

Series of Talks Features Gathering of College Students

An extensive and varied program was presented to the freshman class of MacMurray College on Wednesday. The group gathered in the morning in the social room of the college, where three members of the faculty addressed them. Dr. Isabel Stewart, head of the Psychology department, spoke on the subject, "The New Deal-A College Freshman." Miss Stewart discussed the arrangement of daily life at college and the adaptation of individuals to the group. She also mentioned the experiences which these students would have in learning to depend upon themselves more and of making the adjustment from the high school environment to the college environment. She concluded with the statement that the fundamentals for college are acquired in the first year.

"The Curriculum," was the subject of the next speaker, Professor Gertrude Holmes Beggs of the History department. Mrs. Beggs made the distinction between the curricular and the extra-curricular activities, and stated that the curriculum was the key or the individual marking of every college. The course of study at MacMurray College was then explained by the speaker, and she emphasized the point that the students should give particular consideration to the choice of course during these next two years. The features of the extra-curricular activities were included in the closing part of the speaker's talk.

The third address was made by Professor George W. Adams, head of the history department on the topic, "Keeping Abreast of the Times." He discussed world events and the seriousness of conditions abroad, the problems in the United States, and the close relationship of these problems with the lives and welfare of the students. He then stressed the fact that everyone of the courses offered at this college held either direct or indirect bearing upon the history and the causes of the present world situation. Mr. Adams concluded by urging the students that they make use of the current literature which the college has in its library, in order that each individual might broaden her knowledge of these vital matters of current and future importance.

At the end of the faculty addresses talks were made by several members of the student body, including Emma Emig, student president, Katherine Gouley, vice-president, Nadine Hollman, president of the athletic association, Minna Mar Adams, editor of the Greetings, and Eleanor Warner, president of the Young Woman's Christian Association.

The afternoon periods were devoted to the registration of the freshmen and members of the faculty enjoyed a class, and in the evening the group picnic at Nichols Park.

CHARACTER DAMAGE SUIT LOST IN COURT

Greenfield Case Tried in Greene Court—Other Carrollton News

Carrollton, Ill., Sept. 18.—Judge Walter W. Wright of Jacksonville convened court in the September term of the Greene county circuit court. The first case called was Robert McManis of Greenfield vs. J. Meng, Greenfield. This is a suit for $5,000.00 damages for alleged false arrest and imprisonment.

The testimony was that the store of Frank J. Meng in Greenfield was broken into on the night of August 22, 1932 and about $72.00 in cash taken. Robert McManis was suspected and he alleged that he was falsely and maliciously arrested and held for the Greene county grand jury. The case was dropped at that time. Later McManis feeling his character was injured asked $5,000.00. The case went to the jury at 4:15 p. m. Tuesday and in less than 45 minutes the following verdict was returned, "we the jury find the defendant, Frank J. Meng not guilty."

The next case called was Mrs. M. A. Ford of Jerseyville vs. Edward and Ethel Reif of Carrollton, a lawsuit for $5,000.00 damages for alleged injuries received by Mrs. Ford in an automobile collision. It was found that several of the plaintiff's witnesses were not in court, and Reisinger asked the court to continue the case until Wednesday. Attorney Walter T. Day of Springfield, attorney for the defendant protested this and asked that the case be finished Tuesday night. An argument arose and the jury were removed from the court room.

Judge Wright later brought the jury back into the room and instructed them to bring in a verdict that the defendants were not guilty. After the jury went to the room Reisinger began another argument for a continuance but the court ruled it was too late. None of the defendants witnesses were placed on the stand and the contention was made and sustained that the plaintiff introduced no evidence that the defendants were ever in the alleged collision. The jury brought in a verdict of "We the jury find the defendant, Ed Reif and Ethel Reif not guilty" at 9:45 p. m.

Club Meets
The members of the Carrollton Business and Professional Women's Club held their Becks and Pecks meeting Monday evening in their hall. The meeting opened at 6:30 p. m. with a dinner planned by the membership committee. The research committee presented a program using the following form: "What Shall We Do About Discrimination Against Women?" and "Give Her the Fruit of Her Hand." Members answered roll with "My Second Choice of a Vacation." Mrs. Mae Rafferty, Henrietta Andrews, Mary B. Rockwell, Martha Strickland and Dr. Marguerite Squires gave brief talks on, "Why I Choose the Profession I Did."

News Notes
A Skilled Driver's Club was organized Saturday at the Farm Bureau office. The club is composed of the children of Farm Bureau members between the ages of 15 and 20 years and is sponsored by the Country Life Automobile Insurance company under the direction of R. L. Lee. The purpose of organizing the club is to instruct young drivers in safe driving so as to lessen and avert accidents and make automobile driving safer for driver, riders and pedestrians.

WORMS CAUSE HEAVY LOSS TO FARMERS

Web And Army Worms Do Much Damage to Alfalfa Crops is Report

Web and army worms are doing much damage on Morgan county farms according to Farm Adviser L. E. Parett. Some farmers have reported the complete loss of new crops of alfalfa and serious damage to the old crops because of the depredations of these pests. Both eat and completely defoliate the plants they attack, thus weakening the old and ruining the new alfalfa crops.

There are two broods of web worms in this section of the state. The continuing to feed on the growing legumes until cold weather and emerge in the spring as adults.

Where both web and army worms are prevalent a spray of two pounds of arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of water will kill both. Where only the army worm is working on the crops it is usually better to scatter a poison bran mash. This mash may be made by using 25 pounds of wheat bran and a pound of paris green dry. Then dilute two quarts of black molasses with 10 quarts of water and use the mixture to moisten the bran mixture. This poison mixture should be scattered on the alfalfa fields in a proportion of from eight to nine pounds to the acre. The army worms are attracted by the odor of the bran will consume it and be quickly killed.

The army worm is about two inches long and is black with three yellow stripes down its back. The web worm is smaller and light green in color. It walks with a loop as a measuring worm. Their prevalence may be noted in growing crops by the presence of webs in the tops of plants. The army worm feeds on any plant that is in its path.

Democrats Defend New Deal; Predict Victorious Election

Defending the New Deal, scoffing at what they termed "the Constitution Bugaboo," and predicting a sweeping victory for their candidates in the November election, a quintet of prominent Democratic campaigners engaged in a two hour verbal shelling of the opposition forces here last night.

The visiting speakers, all members of the Democratic state ticket, wheeled their heaviest artillery into action to officially launch the campaign in this community. Referring frequently to the accomplishments of the Roosevelt and Hoover administrations, the orators asserted that "the people are going to vote the Democratic ticket this fall for many reasons, but one is that the Republicans haven't anything to offer."

Michael L. Igoe, former Democratic floor leader in the Illinois House of Representatives, delivered the principal address at the rally, with John Stelle, John Weiland, Martin A. Brennan, Scott W. Lucas and others giving shorter talks.

Morgan county and district party leaders contributed their share of speaking to the program. Warren Brookhouse, Morgan county chairman, and Joseph Knight, the district committee chairman, alternated in conducting the session which attracted an overflow audience to the circuit court room.

A loud speaking system carried the voice of the speakers to the front of the court house where others who failed to get into the court room heard the proceedings.

The front of the court room was filled with visiting candidates and officials. Numerous distinguished party leaders were introduced.

Igoe talked for 45 minutes in defense of the administration, at the same time taking frequent pot shots at the opposition. "Twelve years of Republican rule saw America decline from its peak of greatest prosperity to the lowest depth of misery and despair," he said. "The much praised rugged individuals of that period have produced the ragged individuals of today."

Use Barnum Tactics.
"Unmindful of that record, however, Republican politicians once more are invoking the name of Abraham Lincoln while they pursue the tactics of P. T. Barnum in the hope that they may fool the American people. They proceed upon the theory that Barnum was right when he said that 'the American people love to be fooled.' They forget that the martyred Lincoln, before Barnum's time, said 'you can't fool all the people all the time.' Lincoln was right, but the Republican politicians don't know it. The American people will not be fooled. They appreciate the difference between promises and performance. They know that during the last eighteen months more laws were enacted for the betterment of humanity than were passed in all the preceding history of our country. This is the first time that the average citizen has had a chief executive who keeps the interest of such a citizen before him. The result has been legislation which bestows its benefits upon the laborer, the farmer, the business man and the unfortunate individual who looks upon the future only with despair."

"Roosevelt is endeavoring to rebuild America along purely American lines and he does not admit that small groups of individuals are the only concern of government. This government exists for all the people. Already he has whipped the spirit of defeatism, he is turning the people away from the road of despair and is leading them to what will be a new and a better day for the country in which we live. He believes that the Constitution of the United States was established for the benefit of all of the people of the United States and that one of the main reasons for its adoption was to 'promote the general welfare.' The welfare of all the citizens of the country is his concern and that, briefly, is the yard stick which measures the present day activities of the National Government."

"Critics and cartoons never cured any depression. Who suggests or knows a better manner in which to bring America out of its depression than this Roosevelt program? I believe this is the thought that the average citizen, this will be his unanswered question, and for these reasons his vote will be cast in favor of the present administration."

"Roosevelt has faith in the government under which we live; he has supreme confidence in the Creator of Mankind. His accomplishments are numerous and his leadership is matchless. America will not fail to follow him."

Boon to Agriculture.
Igoe painted the New Deal as a boon to agriculture and the average citizen of America. He termed the processing tax, the farmers protective tariff, a system by which agriculture as a whole has prospered.

The speaker referred to a statement credited to the Republican candidate for Congress in the district, in which he said the processing tax will be paid by the consuming public. "Who does he think will pay for it?" Igoe shouted. "That speech was written in Chicago because you people downstate are not that crazy."

John Stelle, candidate for state treasurer, pledged an honest and efficient administration of state funds if he is elected. He has served as assistant to State Auditor Edward Barrett and to Treasurer John Martin, and seeks support on the basis of his experience.

"My only platform is that I will pledge a continuance of the records established by Barrett and Martin," Stelle said.

One of the outstanding addresses of the evening was given by Congressman-at-Large Brennan. "The Democratic party has many fine accomplishments to its credit, but its latest

REPUBLICAN VETS TO MEET TONIGHT

Republican ex-service men will meet this evening at the court house. The chairman, Fred Main, has called the meeting for eight o'clock, and will be held in the circuit court room. Plans of organization will be discussed at the meeting.

VISIT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Will H. Brown of Denver, Colorado, have arrived in Jacksonville for a visit of ten days with relatives and friends. While in this vicinity they will visit Mr. and Mrs. Tom Fitzpatrick and Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Watson. They will also visit at the home of James Newell of Virginia and William Newell of Ashland and W. H. Dunlap of New Berlin. The Browns were accompanied by Ben Dunlap, also of Denver, who will visit with his folks at New Berlin.
